

The National Weather Service has issued a Blizzard Warning and Coastal Flood Warning for our area until Sunday at noon.

Heavy snow, along with strong and potentially damaging winds, is expected. Drifting snow will result in near zero visibilities Saturday afternoon and evening. Strong winds may down power lines and tree limbs.

A Coastal Flood Watch means that conditions are favorable for flooding in low areas along the shore. Coastal residents should be alert for later watches or warnings and take action to protect property. The parking lot at St. Gertrude's church is available for residents who may want to move cars to higher ground.

Property owners and/or occupants must keep their sidewalks clear of snow, ice, and slush. Any accumulation must be cleared within 24 hours. We ask that you do not push any snow, ice, or slush back out onto the street.

As always, stay tuned to local news and weather stations for continuing updates on this winter storm.
